Dear Mr Clause,

It is with disappointment that I write to you. I was so delighted when I ripped off the wrapping paper to see what present you had given me. This was until my dream turned into my worst nightmare. Down the middle of the screen was
was ~~nothing~~ I was devastated.

I ask you Mr Clause, ^{what} ~~was~~ you thinking. I know that you work three hours
and sixty five days of year but ^{you could all} ~~you could all~~ ^{payed attention to what} ~~you could all~~
^{a satisfied child!} ~~you could all~~ am ^{usually} a good girl and ^{real} ~~real~~ don't mind ^{what happens} but this was my main present. ~~and~~ How would you like it if
this ever happened to you
What ^{did} ~~have~~ I ever ^{do} ~~done~~ to deserve this?

I'm sure that you don't
other children to feel this overwhelming feelings I do it

~~now~~ You have an outstanding reputation for making children thrilled. I am also sure that you want to get this sorted right
away.

In my opinion I think that I should get a replacement. I would strongly suggest that you employ more letter elves as I sent a letter last year and I never got a reply. I hope that you take some of my advice.

Yours sincerely
Keira W.

$$534\,578 = 500\,000 + 30\,000 + 4\,000 + 500 + 70 + 8$$

What number needs to go in the box in the following statements?

- $647\,892 = 600\,000 + 40\,000 + \boxed{7\,000} + 800 + 90 + 2$
- $34\,191 = 30\,000 + 4000 + \boxed{100} + 90 + 1$
- $2\,498\,352 = \boxed{2\,000\,000} + 400\,000 + 90\,000 + 8\,000 + 300 + 50 + 2$
- $53\,790 = 50\,000 + \boxed{3\,000} + 700 + 90$
- $399\,725 = 300\,000 + 90\,000 + 9\,000 + 700 + \boxed{20} + 5$

I can do these standing on my head - just!

Write these in numbers:

- Fifty six thousand two hundred and thirty three. 56233
- Nine hundred thousand and twelve. 900012
- Forty six thousand three hundred and fifty five. 46355
- Three hundred million. 300,000,000

Writing checklist

- Correct punctuation
- Use of connectives
- Imaginative description
- Idiomatic phrases
- Paragraphs
- Use of the present tense
- Use of dashes to mark phrases

Horribly. ^{Read your work out loud, like we did together to check where punctuation should go.}
A very creaky, clanky place. So dangerous you can fall. Nobody's ever wanted it. It's the ^{dusty} ^{easy} dumb rubbish on the floor. It's hanging off the edge. This kind will never end as a happy matter. A house in the middle of nowhere waiting for this to happen.
To end the house is very, very small.
The wind blows down like
snow drifting across a metal floor.
Outside wet, horrible weather pouring down on the little house. So cold you can freeze like ick like ick like ick.
